Getting to Aberdeen

By Air

Aberdeen's International airport is served by a number of major carriers providing an extensive network of routes throughout the UK, direct to Europe and worldwide through major hubs. British destinations include three of the main London airports (Heathrow, Gatwick and Luton), Manchester, Newcastle, Belfast, Birmingham, Bristol and Norwich, as well as the Scottish Highlands and Islands.

By Rail

The main rail terminal is in the centre of Aberdeen with direct services from London's Kings Cross, Edinburgh, Glasgow, North Scotland and most points between operated by Scotrail, GNER and Virgin Trains. Services from London include sleepers and there are good rail connections to the area from all mainland stations.

By Car

From the south, follow the motorway network to Perth. Before entering Perth, take the dual carriageway trunk route (A90) to Dundee and Aberdeen.

From the west, take the A9/A95, the A96 from Inverness or the Highland Tourist Route over the Lecht and through Upper Donside (A939/A934). On tourist routes follow the distinctive brown & white thistle signs.
